College Prayer

O God Our Father,
Whose love has made us all one family
in Christ.
Into Your hands, with Him, we commend our lives.
May He live in us, and work through us,
in all we do today,
Through the power of the Holy Spirit
dwelling in our hearts.
Amen.

All Are Welcome In This Place

What Parents & Carers Need to Know About MONEY MULES

Money muling involves individuals – very frequently young people – transferring funds into and out of their bank account on behalf of someone else (the person who has obtained the funds). In some cases, they've become embroiled in it, and used their own bank account to do this. Money muling is a serious offence under UK law. Involvement in such schemes can result in imprisonment and fines (up to £500,000), depending on the circumstances. The threshold for criminal responsibility in the UK is 10 years of age.

WHAT ARE THE RISKS?

LEGAL REPERCUSSIONS

Young people may be lured by the promise of quick, easy money, but by doing so they will become unwitting participants in activities that can have severe legal and financial consequences. Money muling is a serious offence under UK law. Involvement in such schemes can result in imprisonment and fines (up to £500,000), depending on the circumstances. The threshold for criminal responsibility in the UK is 10 years of age.

ONLINE RECRUITMENT

Cyber-criminal networks are increasingly using various online methods, including social media apps and gaming platforms, in their attempts to recruit young people as potential money mules. The criminals often deploy persuasive, deceptive tactics to gain children's initial interest and attention, then seek to exploit their trust and naivety.

POSSIBLE EXPLOITATION

Money muling is frequently carried out in tandem with other organised criminal activities, such as the drug trade or human trafficking. Not only is money muling a criminal offence in its own right, therefore, but it could also expose young people to harmful situations as well as potentially putting them in contact with some extremely dangerous individuals.

Advice for Parents

EDUCATE AND COMMUNICATE

Talk to your child about the risks and consequences of money muling, emphasising the importance of making informed decisions and seeking guidance if they need it. Create an open, non-judgmental space which encourages them to share their concerns and experiences, so that they feel comfortable getting help if they suspect they may have become involved in money muling.

MONITOR ONLINE ACTIVITY

If you have concerns, you might want to monitor your child's online presence, including their profiles on social media and any gaming platforms that they use. If you notice anything suspicious, you might want to contact the relevant authorities. If you suspect your child might be involved in money muling, contact the relevant authorities.

STAY INFORMED

Criminal methods and approaches to recruiting young people as money mules frequently evolve to reflect the online landscape. Try to stay aware of criminals' current tactics and make time to regularly check out resources provided by schools, law enforcement and financial organisations. The Don't Be Fooled Campaign (at www.moneymules.co.uk) has plenty of useful information and advice.

MEET OUR EXPERT

Meet our expert, a former law enforcement officer, who has helped thousands of young people recover from being involved in money muling. He shares his insights and advice on how to avoid being recruited as a money mule, and how to recover from being involved in such schemes.
